Dedication

Many phrases have been written and various tributes have been made through the years to those whom the world calls friends. So majestic and inspiring are these gifts that our own attempts seem all too weak and ineffective. Yet our hearts are sincere and our efforts are made out of love and appreciation as we dedicate this, our yearbook, to one whom we shall never forget, our dear teacher and friend, Mrs. Dorothy Hardy.

You Seniors are being graduated into a world of unlimited possibilities as well as a world of unstable conditions.

Discoveries, inventions and progressive thinking have projected so very many possibilities that you may feel overcome in attempting to make a wise choice for your life's work. What the future portends is rather difficult to anticipate.

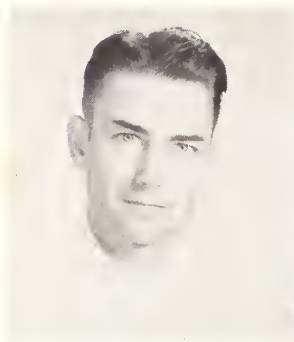

However, you have a basic foundation upon which to build and upon which to call for direction for the years that lie ahead.

May your lives be fully enriched with God's blessings and guidance to enable you to be outstanding citizens in helping mold a Christian, democratic world where the value of the human personality will always be respected.

Last Will and Testament

We, the undersigned, being of sound and stable mind, do hereby bequeath and will the following of our most valued and prized possessions to those mentioned herein, whom we consider best qualified to reign as our heirs:

- To Bennie Tripp, Roadrick Anderson leaves his sweet elfin ways.
To Jake Garris, Stanley Colville leaves his perfect attendance record and his autobiography, "I Skipped and Failed."
To Clayton Mayo, his protege on francais, Cobby Deans leaves his look of disgust and shuffling feet.
To Wayne Nelson and Roy Jones, Gerald Whitley leaves his long legs.
To Calvin Britt, Ernest Lewis leaves his flair for figures. With his glasses on he can't miss.
To Roy Smith, Jerry Little leaves his unique ability to get in and out of trouble.
To Russell Harris, Steve Moore leaves his sincerity with explicit directions as to how to apply it.
To Harold Harris and Jimmy Wainwright, Bobby Pollard leaves the saying "I jus' cain't pass that English."
To Billy Don Thomas, Nathan Stancill leaves his south paw.
To Mac Jones, J. R. Waters leaves his red hair and redder blush.
To Mr. James and those lucky, lucky shop boys, Bobby Garris leaves his 3rd finger right hand.
To Edna Colville and Johnie Rouse, Linda Carson leaves her height.
To Betty Harrell, Annie Mae Everette leaves her ability to keep 'em guessing.
To Jean Bland, Marie Harrell leaves her all-county basketball ability.
To Nadine Garris, Peggy Harrell leaves her matrimonial plans.
To Frances Edwards, Peggy O'Neal bequeaths her charming personality and cute smile.
To Shirley Spain, Barbara Parker leaves her superb ability in typing (with hopes that she'll improve).
To Brooks Eastwood, Linda Smith leaves her love for Clark's.
To Mary Grace Eakes, Brenda Windham bequeaths her divided interest between Bookkeeping and boys.
To Joan Harris, Rose Cash leaves her eagerness to graduate.
To Carolyn Harris and Marion Cobb, Linda Higson leaves her ability to make friends.
To Joe Jenkins, Janice Gladson leaves her faithfulness in school work.
To Wilton Stancill, Joyce Nichols leaves her "Golden School Day Memories."
To Alvin Peaden, Ernest Lewis leaves his French vocabulary.
To Phyllis Nichols, Steve Moore leaves his outstanding driving record.
To John David Stalls, J. R. Waters leaves his admiration for pretty girls.
To Carol Corbitt, Linda Smith leaves her technique for catching "the one and only."
